DEATH ENTERS

Secretary of State Gresham Succumbs to Overwork and Worry.

DIED AT 1:15 THIS MORNING.

Funeral Services Will Be Held at the White House Wednesday Morning.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 28.—Secretary Greeham died this morning. The end came at 1:15 o'clock. His wife and daughter and the bedside. The attending physician, shortly before midnight, saw that the end was near, and at 12 o'clock, notified the family of the approach of death. All hope of his recovery was practically abandoned when his spell occurred shortly before 6 o'clock-last evening. The most powerful heart stimulants known to medical science, nitroglycerine and digitalis, were injected periodically, and an infusion of normal saline solution was made through an opened vein in the arm. He recovered slightly, but owing to severe rigors shortly before 11 o'clock full of bravery. He fully appreciated his condition and spoke words of hope and cheer to his stricken wife and daughter. Some-be would be glad to come in, but the physician stated that it would be impossible for the Secretary to see any one, and he, therefore, decided to remain at Woodley.

Secretary Gresham was conscious almost the entire evening. Many times he inquired for his son 'Otto, who was on his way from Chicago. Secretary Lamont and his private secretary, Mr. Seager, kept the wires busy trying to locate him, with the purpose of hastening his arrival, if possible, by means of a special train. It was discovered about 9 o'clock that Otto Gresham was on the Pennsylvania limited, due to reach Altona, Pa., at midnight. The Pennsylvania officials declared that it would be impossible to expedite his passage to Harrisburg, but a special train was arranged to bring him to Washington.

Mrs. Gresham's devotion to her husband during his iliness has been most tender, patient and faithful. She has shown remarkable endurance and nerve. For four weeks she has scarcely had her clothing off, Night and day she was at the bedside, snatching an hour or two of sleep when she could on a lounge in her room. She seemed determined to fight off death. "If he dies," she said many times, "I lose all." But she did not complain. With patience and devotion she asministered to his every want, giving everything her personal attention, and trying to cheer and brighten him when he was peevish and freiful.

The evenings were damp and chilly, but the Nicaragua business was pending, and there was need of frequent consultation between the President and the Secretary. Judge Gresham had been down with a severe attack of his chronic stomach trouble and that had left him weakened. The pleurisy symptoms were aggravated by another of the Secretary's ailments. Just as he was taken down with the chest trouble he was affilicted with the passage of gall stones. But notwithstanding, these complications, Judge Gresham improved gradually. He began to look forward to convalescence. His private secretary went to Warm Springs, Va., to arrange for the Secretary's removal to that place.

On Saturday the Secretary sat up for some time. He was usually, cheerful He even Fuller, were with her constantly last night. The quarters of the stricken were removed to an upper chamber of the hotel, to free her from the work of preparation for the funeral.

The body of the dead statesman has been laid out in the sleeping chamber where death occurred. The metallic coffin is to be covered with black cloth, with heavy oxidized silver handles and the usual plate for name and circumstances of birth and death.

These two men, together with John Newdecker, Charles Watts, Daniel McGrath, William Schultz, John Clark and Theodore Cain were arrested Monday and locked up at the Fourth District Station, where they were lined up before Beesewetter. The robbery was perpetrated so quickly that he only gained a very hasy description of the thleves, but he stated that Brennan bore a striking resemblance to one of the guilty parties. Later he concluded that both Brennan and O'Neill were mixed up in it. Nearly all the above prisoners are known to the police and bear more or less unsavory regulations. Watts, Brennan and O'Neill, are all said to have served terms for burglary or larceny.

Brennan, Schultz and Clark are said to belong to the notorious of Fallon street gang, of which Kaiser and Hense, the convicted murderers of Stockman Brown were also members.

came on during the evening. He had a bas night Saturday, and was very ill Sunday, and apparently railied this morning. But toward evening his condition grew worse. It was discovered on Sunday that his left lung was affected. Until that time the pleuretic water had only touched the right lung. This unexpected complication added to the gravity of the lilhess, but this virtually gave his family just cause for alarm. His physician, Dr. W. W. Johnson, remained with him all Saturday and Sunday nights. The trouble on Sunday seemed to be with the stomach. There were symptoms of the Sacretary's old enemy, dyspepsia. In the afternoon the heart began to show signs of weakness. This naturally alarmed the Secretary's friends. Up to that development great confidence had been entertailized that the Secretary's once vigorous constitution would pull him through.

Mrs. Andrews of Chicago, Secretary Gresham's married daughter, and her husband, arrived on Friday last, and they, with Mrs. Gresham, were constantly at the Secretary's bedside. Not until Sunday was it deemed necessary to send for the Secretary's son, Mr. Otto Gresham.

use in the varied wants of mankind. Gold is now, and has been for ages the chief measure of value in international commerce and the larger transactions of domestic exchanges. Silver, from its bulk and weight, is not avilable for large payments either at home or abroad, but it is indispensable in the minor wants of mankind. Gold, from its greatly superior value, cannot be utilized for such purposes. Therefore it is that both metals have been coined into money at a fixed ratio. The enormous increase of the production of silver in the United States, Mexico and Australia has disturbed this ratio and has lowered the marketable value of silver precisely as a like increase of production has lowered the price of other commodities. It is a universal law that price or value is measured by quantity. Under these conditions the rational and proper course would be change of ratios, but this can only be effective as to these two metals by a concert of action among commercial nations. Until this can be accomplished the only logical way is for each nation to coin both metals and main. ong commercial nations. Until this can accomplished the only logical way is for h nation to coin both metals and maintain the coinage of the cheaper tal at par by limitation of count, and redemption when in cess of the demand for it. Such is now policy of the United States and of every at commercial nation, including every nitry of Europe. Other nations adopt the ser standard alone, not from choice, but m poverty. I believe that the policy of United States, adopted in 1853, of coinfractional silver coins in limited quantes from silver bullion purchased at martipole and making them legal tender for all sums, is the only way to preserve the rity of gold and silver coins at a fixed to. This is properly called bimetallic bacy. I hope and believe the common creat of the commercial nations will lead em, through an international commission, either adopt a new ratio based on market lue of the metals or to coin them and tintain them, as we do, at their present the. FREE COINAGE maintain them, as we do, at their present ratio.

FREE COINAGE.

The policy now urged by the producers of silver and by men who wish to pay, their debts in cheaper money than they promised to pay, is the free coinage of silver. It is the degradation of our dollar to 50 cents. It applied to our national bonds it is a repudiation of one-half of the public debt. It is the repudiation of one-half of the public debt. It is the repudiation of one-half of the public debt. It is the repudiation of one-half of the public debt. It is the repudiation of one-half of the public debt. It confers no favors on productions of any kinc, whether of the farm, the workshop or the mine, for if they get nominally more dollars for their productions, their additional dollars would have only one-half the purchasing power of the gold dollars.

The great hardships of this policy would fall upod the workingmen, skilled and unskilled, whose daily wage measured by the present standard is higher than that of any country in the world. Their wages will purchase more of the necessaries of life than the wages paid for similar labor anywhere outside of the United States.

The Rapublican party in its national platform of 1892 demanded good money of equal purchasing power, whether colued of gold or silver, or composed of United States motes and national notes, based upon the orded of the United States, maintained at par with cont. This is the bimetalic policy. There we stand to-day. I hope and trust when the principles, policy and wisdom of the parity of gold and silver coined. If they will not co-operate with us in this policy, the Republican party can, and, I hope, will, do it alone, Good money and plenty of file as important to all our people as equality of rights and privileges.

Let us, then, with a firm reliance upon the principles, policy and wisdom of the great party to which we belong, nominate our candidates and declare our platform, and then make our appeal to the intelligence of the popole of the popole of the popole of the propole of th

ATTACKED BY A DOG.

Two Rutger Street Boys Badly Bitten by a Newfoundland.

Bitten by a Newfoundland.

Paul McMichael, 15 years old, son of Geo. E. McMichael, an express messenger, 3317 Rutger street, would have been torn to pleces Monday afternoon by a fefocious doy but for the heroism of Miss Maggie Mackin, 3318 Rutger street.

The dog, an hour before, had atacked and badly wounded Willis Macklin, 10 years old, 3327 Rutger, and had been severely beaten by Joseph McMichael, a younger brother of Paul. The attack upon the latter was prompted entirely by revenge on the part of the animal. Paul was bitten ten times and his clothing torn to rags.

The dog, "Jack," was raised by the McMichaels from a pup. He is a huge black Newfoundland, very powerful. Monday morning Mrs. McMichael started down town, leaving the dog loose with her youngest son, Joe, the only one about the house. She cautioned the boy about bringing any of his playmates into the yard, fearing the doy would attack a stranger. Joe, however, went in from the street, acompanied by Willis Macklin, and the latter's little brother, Robert. The dog immediately sprang upon Willis, pinned him to the fence and began grawing at his breast and neck. The little fellow shrieked with pain and fright and his young companions came to his rescue with sticks. They beat the brute unmercifully, but before he released wills went home, where his mother immediately cauterized his wounds and he was able to be about Tuesday. An hour later Paul McMichael, returning from school, went into the back yard. The dog was lying near the kitchen door, and the boy leaned over and patted his head. The animal growled sullenly, then with a yelp, sprang at the boy. bitting his right hand twice in the paim and once on the thumb, before he recovered from the shock. The boy took to his heels, dashing through the yard toward the back gate, hoping to reach the alley and close the gate before the animal reached him. Half way down the yard the brute was upon him again. His left hand was seized in the powerful jaws that came down twice upon it, then the beak acaught wounds. STATE DEPARTMENT CLOSED.

Ambassadors Abroad and Foreign Le gations. Notified of Gresham's Death.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—The State Department was technically closed to-day, admission being denied to all visitors, although the entire force of employes were kept in waiting to assist in the discharge of the formalities attending upon notification to the Foreign Powers of the nation's loss. Acting Secretary Unl, hollow-eyed and nervous as the result of his all-night vigil at the door of the death chamber, was early at his post engaged in preparation of orders to be signed by the President and in frequent communication with the family of the dead Secretary. Within three-quarters of an hour after the end came last night he had dispatched brief cable messages to the four Ambassadors who represent the United States abroad—to Mr. Bayard at London, Mr. Bustis at Paris, Mg. Runyon at Berlin and Mr. MacVeagh at Rome—stating that Secretary Gresham had expired at 1:15 o'clock. In addition, Mr. Eustis was directed to send a like formal announcement to all of the United States Legations. This morning Mr. Unit prepared a draft of a formal note intended to be sent to the representatives of the foreign nations, accredited to Washington, and also for transmission to the United States representatives abroad, conveying to them the news of Secretary Gresham's death in a more formal style than could be sitained in a brief cable message.

The President, accompanied by Mrs. Cleveland, came to the White House about 10:30 o'clock, and he was immediately waited upon by Acting Secretary Unl with this notice. An official order was also prepared closing the Executive Departments on the day appointed for the funeral. This was drawn for the consideration of the Cablent. The purpose was to follow as closely as possible the official procedure in the case of death of Secretary Windom, the most recent instance of the death of a Cabinet. NEW YORK, May 28.—A special to the World from Washington, D. C., says: Dr. World from Washington, D. maining log cabin statesmen, born March 17, 1832, in an old-fashioned farm house near Lanesville, Harrison County, Indiana, His birthday was the same as St. Patrick's, but the Greshams are of English ancestry, and the family is as old as the Lincolns in the mother country. His father, William Gresham, was aheriff of the backwoods county, and he died the death of a brave county, and he died the death of a brave officer in the discharge of his duty. An outlaw named Sipes defied arrest and terrorised a dozen officers. William Gresham sought him and arrested him at a dance. The sheriff was unarmed and Sipes shot him dead with his rife. Judge Gresham was 2 years old then, next to the youngest of five small children.

In his boyhood he followed the plough by day and studied his books by night. His education was gained by the hardest kind of work and self-denial. His mother was poor but plucky and she managed the farm and kept the family together. Waiter went to the district school and when he was 16 years old an opportunity came to attend Corydon Seminary. He got a clerkship in the County Auditor's office, and this paid his board and school expenses. He spent two years at Corydon, then a year at Hoomington University, and on his resurn to Corydon he got a place in the County Clerk's office. Here he studied law, having entered his name in the office of Judge Wm. A. Porter. He was admitted to the bar when 22 years old and began to practice.

He was a Whig in politics and joined the Republican party as soon as it was organized. His law partner was a delegate to the convention which nominated John C. Fremont for the Presidency in 1856. Young Gresham stumped the state for "the Pathinder." He was nominated for the Legislature in 1800 as a Republican and was elected, though his district had a normal Democratic majority of 500. As Chairman of the Committee on Military Affairs he brought forward and had passed a militabili which placed Indiana on almost a war footing. He was a valuable coadjutor of War Gov. Morton, who leaned upon him and gave him his confidence. He aided in procuring the assent of the Indiana Legislature to the proposal to the Legislature of Virginia for a conference of representatives of the borday states at Washington.

CALLED TO THE CABINET.

President Arthur called him from the bench to become a member of his Cabinet in 1883. He took the portfolio left vacant by the death of Postmaster General Howe. One of the notable incidents of his career as Postmaster General was his exclusion of the Louisiana Lottery Co. from the use of the malls, and this he accomplished in spite of powerful pressure. Near the closs of President Arthur's term, on the death of Secretary Folger, Judge Gresham was appointed Secretary of the Tressury, a position which he held but a short time. Although one of the youngest, he was always one of the most trusted of President Arthur's advisers. His judicial quality of mind, his sense of fairness and his even temper made him a valuable coadjutor in such a position. He shared President Arthur's views with respect to a revision of the tariff and a reduction of the surplus revenue. One of his last acts as a member of the Administration was a speech delivered in Wall street to the business men of New York, in which, although Blaine, the Republican candidate for President, was daily turning every protectionist argument to account in the canvass, he maintained that there was no legitimate excuse for the heavy burdens of popular taxation. That there was no legitimate excuse for the heavy burdens of popular taxation. That there was no legitimate excuse for the heavy burdens of popular taxation. That there was no legitimate against Benjamin Harrison. When he resigned his Cabinet position it was to become a candidate for United States Senator and his facultimes and legal accuracy. In recent years his decision in the Seventh Judiceal District. He has held court for several years in Chicago and his decisions have been recognized and accepted as the embodiment of fairness and legal accuracy. In recent years his decision in the famous "O" strike cases is one of the most notable. It made him thousands of friends among organized labor.

they ran the system exactly as Gould wished.

The first-mortgage bondholders, finding that they were not considered at all, finally filed a bill in the United States Court at Chicago for the removal of those receivers and for an adjustment of their rights. The case came on for hearing before Judge Gresham in November, 1886, and nautod many days. Much testimony was taken, many nice and intricate questions of law were raised, and learned counsel argued with acuteness and ability. In his decision Judge Gresham tore away all the mass of sophistry that had been thrown around the case, ignored all the fine points that had been raised, and went to the heart of the matter.

NEVER PAID HER FINE.

Maude Lewis Had a Pull in the Four Courts Years Ago.

As far back as 1882 Maude Lewis, slayer of ex-Senator Peter R. Morrissey, had suffince in the criminal courts to escape the consequences of crime. For thirteen years Wm. A. Collins, who, on June 2, 1882, charged the woman with the theft of a dog and procured her conviction, avoided paying her fine or toiling it out at the Work-house.

Mr. Collins is now station agent for the Missouri Pacific Railway at Benton. He told the story of Maude Lewis' first crime to a Post-Dispatch reporter.

"The woman at that time was living at 2008 South Spring street," said Mr. Collins. "We were a few doors from her at 2237. Our experience with her over the dog was the only thing we knew about her. She was at that time living with Albert A. Andrews and no one had any reason to doubt that they were lawful man and wife. We had a pretty black and tan dog. One day it disappeared, and shortly afterward we learned that it was in Maude Lewis' possession. I went to her house, saw the dog there and demanded it. She would not give it up, at first denying it was the dog we had lost, and afterward demanding that I pay her 315 reward for finding it. I refused to fall in with her attempted extortion. She became more abusive and used language too foul to repeat. She was at that time a hardened woman. "The trial followed and she was con-The Iguanodon, a picture of which was sent by the Marquis of Queensberry to Lord Aifred Douglass, according to cable-grams, is a genus of extinct Dinosaurian reptiles, the remains of which have been found in great abundance in the Wealden, a delta formation of the southeast of England. In 1879 Prof. Prestwich discovered in the "Kimmerdige Clay" the earliest known remains of these reptiles. Although no complete skeleton of the iguanodon has been found, such bones of it as have been obtained prove it to have been one of the largest terrestrial animal known. In one instance, its femur measured from four to five feet in length, with a circumference of twenty-two inches at its narrowest part. These and other measurements led Dr. Mantell, the original discovere of iguanodon, and others to conclude that it probably attained a length of from fifty to sixty feet. Its front limbs more abusive and used language too divicted. She retained the late Joseph Lodge as her attorney, and afterward Lawyer J. J. McBride. Both withdrew from the case, however, and I do not know whom she retained in the new trial.

"After the dog spisode I had her watched by detectives while the case was pending. She continued to live on Spring street for some time after. Then she appears to have left the city, as the detectives lost all trace of her. About six months after her final conviction I met her on the street, but, of course, had no conversation with her. I was never able to learn what became of her after she moved from Spring street until the murder of Morrissey brought her again before the public. "In spite of her conviction and the fine of that I am sure, because I took pains to find out and even attempted for a time to have the fine enforced. That was why I had her watched by detectives. I finally gave it up, because I found that it would cost me more than I cared to spend."

though he did not proclaim the fact from the housetops so far as anybody has been able to find out.

A reporter of the Post-Dispatch called on the ex-Congressman at his hotel bright and early Tuesday morning and met him as he came down the big stairway. He was as fresh as a daisy and looked through his steel-rimmed spectacles just like Col. Morrison always does. Any one who has gone through the process of pouring water on a duck's back can imagine how the questions fired at the good natured commissioner slipped and slid and never touched him.

The newspaper man prodded and pried and then pried and prodded a whole lot more, just for the sake of a change in the bill, but he never so much as ruffled at all feather.

This is the way the reporter's troubles began: "Good morning, Colonel, what do you know about sliver to-day?"

"Oh, I know all about sliver—I've known that for a long time."

"What do you know about sentiment in Illinois? Has there been any change in the situation over there?"

"Well, that I couldn't tell you anything about. I have been out of politics for over a year. The Interstate Commerce Commission takes up about all my time, and I have been in the State so little you'll have to find out from the newspapers."

"Before you go, won't you give me an interview on the silver situation?"

"No. I know so little about it you could learn more from almost anybody else."

Ex-Congressman Morrison says he is taking a deep interest in the silver fight, as he does in all questions before the people, but declares he is taking no part in it. When his attention was called to the declaration of Secretary Carlisle that in case a 16 to 1 man became the nominee for President he could see nothing left to him but to yote for a sound money candidate, Col. Brave Union Soldier. Col. William Edgar, who died at the City man who fought on the Federal side.

He entered Dr. S. B. Houts' regiment of 18th Missouri Infantry Volunteers in 1822 as a private, near Chevala, Tenn., having gone there a poor country lad from Columbia, Ill. His deeds of brayery made him conspicuous among his comrades. He was rapidly promoted and left the army at the close of the war a Lieutenant Colonel.

Dr. Houts speaks of him in the highest terms of praise, saying that he could do better commanding and fighting and with less men than any soldier he ever met. During Sherman's march to the sea Col. Edgar was detailed mostly to scout duty, and during that march attacked and fought with success Gen. Wheeler's army of 5,000 men with his own 300, without knowing the overwhelming odds against him.

At the close of the war he came to St. Louis, but soon became dissipated in his habits, and failed to get along.

Military tactics were his natural gift, and if he had remained in the army he would doubtless have achieved great distinction.

Before his death he requested that he be buried at the Baracks, and Frank P. Blair Post, of which he was a member, will see that this last request is carried out.

Col. Edgar, who was 55 years old, has been living with his wife at 300 North Broadway in almost destitute circumstances.

He was employed as a drummer for various clothing houses around town, and was mostly stationed at the stockyards to bring men over here to make their purchases. But he was not prosperous, and nearly all he made was spent in drink. Last Thursday he was taken to the City Hospital, a total wreck from alcoholism, and from the start little hope of his recovery was entertained.

This class of men go into the country with wagons, collect farmers' produce and come back to sell the goods from their wagons. This is in violation of a city ordinance which requires all commission merchants to take out a city license.

Last Saturday warning was given all these men by the Fruit and Produce Exchange, and several took out a regular merchant's license, which costs less than a commission merchant's license. These licenses were obtained on the claim that the goods were bought outright from the farmers, whereas they are mostly taken on consignment.

THE FREE COINAGE OF SILK PAPER.

Mr. Carlisle is at some pains to give the people of the West and South his 'personal views' on silver. His personal views are entirely immaterial. He is no longer significant personally. Back of capitalists determined that cash, coined by the Government and representing sovereignty of the people, shall be displaced from circulation by corporation paper representing debtthe debt of corporations-a debt they propose to have indersed by the people so that it can be loamed to the people at interest as if it were cash.

WHO SHALL PAY THE COST!

The cost of the extra session is estimated at $65,000. As the appropriation made at the regular session verged very close upon the estimate of income, some provision will have to be made to re imburse the State Treasury for this out lay. How shall it be made?

Governor in the call for the extra session could easily have been enacted in week. The reason why it was no promptly enacted was that the Mis Pacific Railroad maintained at Jefferson City an arrogant and defiant lobby which held up the Legislature and ob structed the public business.

This being so, who should pay the cos of the unnecessary prolongation of the extra session—the taxpayers, who had no part in it, or the interests which were directly and ostentatiously responsible for it? Why should the people be called upon to meet this unnecessarily heavy burden, while the railroads are relieve from their just share of taxation, their being made up by a dispre portionately heavy tax on farm lands? In 1894 the railroads of Missouri were assessed at $66,865,411, or about $10,755 per mile. The average cost of construction of the leading lines, according to their own reports and estimates, was $64,050 a mile, or six times the amount at which they were appraised by the State Board of Equalization. The aggregate amount of the stocks and bonds of the Missouri Pacific, the Wabash, the Kansas City, Ft. Scott & Memphis, the Hannibal & St. Joseph, and the St. Louis & San Francisco railroads alone is equal to $72,476 a mile, and if that sum should be taken as the real value of these roads. then the assessment made by the State Board is only 20 per cent of the amount which the roads estimate themselves to be worth. The net earnings of thes roads, as reported to the Board of Railroad Commissioners, averaged $1,680 per mile in 1893, or 11 per cent of their as-essed valuation. These being the facts regarding the taxation of railroad property in Missouri, why should not the State Board of Equalization increase the assessment of the railroads to something near the as sessment of other property in the State An extraordinary expenditure of $65,000 the strong combination of has been imposed upon the people of this State by the railroad lobby. The railroads should be compelled in all fairness and justice to meet it. The Post-Dispatch invites the attention of the State Board of Equalization to these indisputable facts and proposes to keep the electric light turned on them until something is done to relieve the people and place upon the railroads that proportion of the burdens of government required of them by the State Constitution.

In strong contrast with the action of the representatives of the German people is the action of the German bankers. At a conference in Hanover the bankers adopted a resolution to the effect that no change should be made in the present currency laws. The reason alleged is that it would have a disquieting effect on the monetary situation. This means that the monetary situation, although in political economy it is crushing the people, suits the bankers. The bankers' theory is that whatever suits them and enables them to make good dividends ought to be upheld by the governmen and forced on the people.

The Democrats of St. Clair County did wisely in refusing to be left unrepre-sented in the Illinois State Convention. The resolutions adopted at the Belleville mass meeting were among the best that have yet been put forth.

In this way the questio could be met and settled now and a fight within the party could be thus avoided next year when the campaign opens and the nominating conventions are held. With the position of the party on this issue understood the fight would cease and the party would put forth a united front. However, the advocates of a State conventi are considerably handicapped by the fact that a majority of the State Committee are opposed to it. A large number of Demi crats in all parts of the State have de clared themselves for such a convention make the committee yield is to press the demand. Having read some expressions on the money question from Judge Lackland in your issue of the 26th, I was reminded of what Senator Blackburn of Kentucky said in reply to Secretary Carlisle's speech at Memphis, i. e., "No man can be so big in mind or body but what he can be answered." I indorse the sentiment, and as regards Judge Lackland, bank president and gold standard advocate, I say: No man can be so big in mind or body, or so rich in bonds or mortgages but what I, no bondholder, politician or Democrat, but just the owner of one little vote, can answer. And what I want to answer in reference to his remarks is that we are just alike in one thing, with this difference: He says: "For myself I have always been a Democrat, but between a sound money Republican candidate and a free silver Democrat, I shall vote for the sound money Republican, and I have heard many life-long Democrats say the same thing." Now here is the difference between us: For myself, I have always been a Republican, but between a single gold standard Republican candidate and a free silver, 16 to 1, doilar of our dadby Democrat, and I daily hear many life-long Republicans say the same tring.

REPUBLICAN VOTER.

St. Louis, May 27. To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Consequences of Free Coinage.

Consequences of Free Coinage.

To the Editor of The Post-Dispatch.

Mr. Carlisle, in his Covington speech, says that free coinage of silver at 18 to 1 would instantly drain $825,000,000 of gold out of circulation. He does not, however, leave us in doubt as to what will become of it, as did Prof. Laughlin in his debate with Harvey.

Mr. Carlisle says:

"The banking and other great financial institutions, which own and hold in their reserves much the greater part of this gold, would at once sell it at a large premium for silver-about $2 for $1-or$ they would exchange it for silver bullion in the market at the ratio of about $2 pounds of silver for each pound of gold."

Now, this may be good common sense to a man with one eye or one idea; but the man up a tree would wonder, all the time, which one of the holders of silver bullion would sell so cheaply? The man up a tree would see, at a glance, that each holder of silver bullion could get par for his metal at the United States mint and would not be likely to swap it for gold for less than it was worth at the mint. If he should swop it for gold, as Mr. Carlisle would have you believe, what would be do with his gold? He could make no use of it anywhere in the United States of America on better terms than a ratio of 16 to 1, notwithstanding he had been foolish enough to allow $2 to 1 in his anxiety to possess it? Is there a single individual in all the land fool enough to do a Mr. Carlisle will do? 'Not one! Not one!'

The fact is, the moment the United States takes her stand in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of it to 1, Germany, France and the Latin Union will follow her example in quick succession. They have no silver to spare in all the East. They want much more than they now have. They are willing to take it from us at a low figure as long as we are foolish enough to part with it in that way. But they must have it, and as soon as this country fixes the ratio at 16 to 1, and takes all the product at that rate, the ratio of sold and s Table Mats Not in Vogue.

Table mats of any sort have altogether gone out of vogue. It is not to be denied that that the board looks better without them, but they did "save" the cloth, and that suffers accordingly for the loss of this protection. cision is not the only illustration that may be readily cited. Note the constitutional veto of local option in taxation at Hyatts-ville, Md., the recent decision against the Ohio legacy tax, and the annulment of the Illinoisafactory act. A series of acts similar to the last has been passed in England in the face of the same outery against the violation of freedom of contract, and the results are among the most beneficent ever accomplished by legislation.

A constitution is not a sacred thing. When it no longer expresses the wishes of the majority, but of the small minority, of the people it should be changed. If our National Constitution is so framed as to "exempt from taxation those who are best able to pay," then, as Justice Harlan says, "the American people cannot too soon amend their Constitution." There is, however, a method, entirely in accordance with the letter, as well as the spirit, of the Constitution, by which the whole problem of stitution, by which the whole problem of federal taxation can be simplified, and definitely and finally solved. Having reached the usual limit of "Forum" letters, I reserve its explanation for a future communication.

Smoke Abatement. To the Editor of The Post-Dispatch.

The letter of the Secretary of the Smoke Abatement Association in Saturday's Post-Dispatch is very satisfactory as showing that the association is on the alert and doing the duty it was organized for. But I think the writer showed an unbecoming impatience in complaining that letters pointing out smokestacks that appeared to need attention are likely to hamper the work of the association. It seems to me that the Smoke Abatement Association should welcome the co-operation of citizens, and that one of the best ways to enable the association to expedite its work is for every citizen who comes across a badly-smoking chimrey to point it out to the association. Surely the best way to abate smoke is to bring offenders to the notice of those whose business it is to set the law in operation against them.

conspiring to defraud the Fidelity Mutual Life Association out of $10,000 by the imposition of a corpse as that of Benjamin F. Pitezel, was brought to an abrupt ending to-day when the prisoner pleaded guilty. Sentence was deferred.

His attorney then spoke a few earnest words to the prisoner, and Holmes manner at to the prisoner, and Holmes manner at ance became serious and he nodded his need as thought in assent of some proposi-tion. The plea was entered and sentes was deferred. Holmes was removed Mr. Graham's private office for a contaction, as stated.

tone was deferred. Holmes was removed to Mr. Graham's private-office for a consultation, as stated.

The charge grew out of the alleged attempt of Holmes and two accomplices to palm off on the Fidelity Company a dead body found in the house at 13f Callow Hill street, this city, as that of Benjamin Pitezel of St. Louis, whose life was insured in the company for $10,000, whereas, it is said, Pitezel is still alive.

The alleged conspiracy was successfully carried out through the assistance of J. D. Howe, a young lawyer of St. Louis, who, with Marion Hedgepeth, was arrested, charged with being accomplices of Holmes. Howe, it is said, received a fee of $2,500, one quarter of the insurance, which he collected for his part of the work.

The first witness when the trial opened yesterday was Levi G. Fouse, president of the Fidelity Mutual. He testified that a $10,000 policy was issued in the name of Benjamin F. Pitezel in November, 1898, and that in September, 1894, the company was informed by Jeptha D. Howe, attorney, in fact, for Pitezel's wife, that Pitezel was dead. A Mr. Fally, one of the company's solicitors, wrote to Holmes, who he knew was acquainted with Pitezel. Holmes answered he could identify the body, and on Sept. 20 he called on Mr. Fouse in Philadelphia. Holmes said he could identify the body and a crushed thumb-nail. Holmes said he arrived the next day with Pitezel's daughter. Mr. Fouse then told about the identification of the putrid body-of the supposed Pitezel when it was exhumed in Philadelphia.

Wah Lee of 1525 Washington avenue has knocked out this tradition by testimony he gave through an interpreter Tuesday morning in the Second District Police Court. But he regrets the day he turned his back on the dishes of the Orient, and longed for the flesh pots of America.

Orient, and longed for the near pots of America.

Monday night, in quest of the delicious porterhouse, Wah entered a butcher shop at Fifteenth street and Lucas avenue. While quietly waiting for the package, Charles Young, a 14-year-old colored boy, spied him at the counter.

Perhaps Young is a paranolac, with homicidal mania. He does not know and has not had time since his arrest to consult eminent authorities, but when he saw Wah Lee an irresistible impulse seized him to send Wah to the other world.

Virginis like, the colored boy seized a knife from the butcher's stall and plunged it—but there he failed.

Wah Lee's hide is thick, and instead of his heart only the celestial epidermis was punctured.

trunk in the shop which had just been packed for S. C. Hirschberg, preparatory to his starting on the road. The locks were forced with a cold chilsel and a hammer, which the intruder found in the shop, Preparatory to the work, he turned on the

After he had selected from the stock with a practical eye, he tore the plaster from into the brick to create the impression that a skilled crook had done the job.

DIOCESAN CONVENTION LYNCHED BY

Pitty-Sixth Gathering of Episco pal Clergy and Laymen.

The fifty-sixth annual convention of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Missouri began at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning at Christ Church Cathedral, Thirteenth and Locust streets, with morning prayer and holy communion service. Rt. Rev. Daniel S. Tuttle, bishop of the diocese, officiated, assisted by Rt. Rev. Chas. Clifton Penick, formerly bishop in Africa, and the clergy of the diocese. Rev. R. A. Holland, S. T. D., rector of St. George's Church, preached the convention sermon. He took his text from Paul's Second Epistle to Timothy, ist chapter, lith verse, "Whereunte I am appointed a preacher and an apostie, and a teacher of the Gentiles."

verse, "Whereunto I am appointed a preacher and an apostle, and a teacher of the Gentiles."

He said that the inper syidence of Paul's conversion hinges on the man's after life, and the influence of his teachings on the centuries following his death. The preacher dwelt on the greatness of Paul's intellect and his unfailing faith in the reality of his vision. If any inner or subjective proof of the man's character was wanted, it was to be found in a study of his mind and his character. Dr. Holland saked, "What is this worth to us as an encouragement to repeat in our own lives the experiment which, with him, was so successful."

After the services, which lasted until noon, the clergy and the lay delegates assembled in the Sunday School room of Schuyler Memorial House, in the rear of the Cathedral. Bishop Tuttle called the convention to order and appointed as secretary Mr. John R. Triplett, who has filled that office for twenty years. At 1 p. m. the convention took a recess and the delegates had lunch served in the Memorial House by the ladies of all the city parishes. At 2 p. m. the delegates reassembled and Bishep Tuttle delivered his annual address.

In the svening from 3 to 11 o'clock, the bishop holds a reception in the Memorial House. The business sessions will be held Wednesday and Thursday, beginning at 10 a. m., and continuing all day.

In the selection of delegates to the Triennial Convention of the church in the United States, to be held next Cotober, at Minneapolis, Minn., there may be an outcropping of the controversy precipitated by the formation of the Protestant Episcopal Church Association, the object of which is to retard the growth of ritualism. The voting may be along the lines of ritualism and anti-ritualism.

At 8 p. m. Wednesday there will be a missionary meeting at the church of the CURRENCY REFORM LEAGUE Vice-President Follett Issues a Call to the Friends of Free Silver.

Vice-President J. B. Follett of the Na tional Bimetallic League has issued a call for a meeting of the friends of free silver vening, June 1.

evening, June 1.

To a Post-Dispatch reporter Mr. Follett said that St. Louis seems to be almost the center of the free silver movement and should be organized to meet the exigencies of the situation. With the friends of free silver in this city organized, he said, St. Louis would be able to send delegates to the various conventions called and that will be called to meet in almost every State in the West and South.

"If St. Louis free silver men had been fully organized," he said, "there is no reason why the convention called to meet in Memphis should not have been held here. The United States will not turn out at that convention; the time is too short; but it will be a representative gathering.

"California has issued a call for a convention to meet in St. Louis and if the friends of free silver organize and are prepared to take care of them other States will sollow suit.

CHICAGO, Ill., May 28.—President Tracy of the National Republican League states that all the indications are that the convention of the League which is to be held in Cleveland June 19 next will be the largest ever held. Cleveland people are making very extensive preparations for the entertainment of the delegates.

Speaking of the work of the convention will discuss the currency question as it will all other matters of national importance, but I do not believe any attempt will be made to forestall the action of the National Republican Convention. It has been the policy of the League to confine its work to organization, and while fully discussing all national questions we have always been careful not to overstep our prerogatives."

WHEAT STILL SOARING

All the News of a Bullish Character at Chicago.

CHICAGO, May 28.—Wheat had a wild bull opening to-day, and within five minutes from the tap of the bell was selling 2c higher that the price at which it closed yesterday. But inside of another five minutes it had lost 1\(\frac{1}{2}\) of the gain.

The news was all of a bullish character. Yesterday's low harometer in the Northwest, which promised general rains over the wheat belt, had resulted only in light showers here and there, and the cold wave was being followed by what promised to be a scorching hot one. Perhaps the most bullish piece of news, however, was the report of King & Co. of Toledo, who summarized advices of over 4.00 correspondents in the wheat belt by saying that the indications were that in the six principal wheat producing States not more than half of an average crop would be raised, involving a reduction of 100,000,000 bushels in the crop aggregate for the year. Cables were easier in sympathy with our break of yesterday, but they cut no figure in the market. At the start brokers stood in the pit with sheaves of buying orders in their hands and the opening wai a scramble. to buy. The official quotation for July at the outset showed an advance of 1c over night at 70\(\frac{1}{2}\) (c, though there were simultaneous sales as high as 80\(\frac{1}{2}\) c. The first dash of buying orders put the price up to 80\(\frac{1}{2}\) c, and then heavy selling to take the fine profits offered, with a slackening in the buying after the early accumulation of orders had been filled, resulted in a quick break to 79\(\frac{1}{2}\) c. This was followed by a raily to 80c; but it quickly weakened again and sold down to 79\(\frac{1}{2}\) c.

The receipts of corn were again very heavy, amounting to 1\(\frac{1}{2}\) for corn were again very heavy, amounting to 1\(\frac{1}{2}\) for care, the day heat and corn. ROOF GARDEN OPENING.

Despite the High Wind the Occasion

Was a Success.
The Union Trust Roof Garden began its second season Monday night with a presen-tation of vaudeville features of a higher tation of vaudeville features of a higher class than perhaps any roof garden in the country can boast. Unfortunately the weather was not such as to induce the gathering of a large audience. The wind was high, and those who did attend feit the need of wraps. It was really cold way up there in the air, but the slight inconvenience felt will serve as a guarantee of comfortable evenings during the coming months.

In most vaudeville entertainments there is a tendency to run somewhat to vulgarity. Buch a criticism could certainly not be passed on the Roof Garden. There was nothing to which an exception could be taken and it even may be said that an indulgence in a wee bit more of spiciness would add to the attractiveness of the bill.

The star of the evening was Nellie Ganthony, the English concert hall society salon entertainer. She appeared in a musical monologue, which was brightly written and presented in a pleasing style. She quite caught the audience.

Among the other clever entertainers were an operatic duet, Delaur and Deprimonte, a Japanese magician, whose tricks were good, but familiar, the Midgleys in a humorous sketch, and the Packetts, a musical trio.

The Roof Garden was charming in appearmorous sketch, and the charming in appear-trio.

The Roof Garden was charming in appear-ance. The new orchestra chairs in the theater are a great improvement over the old common chairs and the cafe was delight-fully picturesque with the plants and many colored lights.

A difficulty between the Library directors and the contractors, arising from a disagreement as to the woodwork in the building, was the cause of the money being withheld. By the terms of the settlement, which was reached late Monday afternoon, the contractors will at once be paid the amount of tiler judgment, less $500, which is to be held in abeyance until the repairs and alterations stipulated shall have been made. The litigants are to pay their own costs, which amount to $250.40 for the city and $200 for the contractors.

G. W. Atterbury, who constructed the Belleville electric street railway, has forfeited his interest in it and the ownership of the plant is now vested in the business men who advanced him funds with which to complete and operate it. A month ago Mr. Atterbury obtained a thirty-days' extension of the time given him in which to repay the amount advanced, about $22,000, but he failed to take advantage of it and the time has now expired. The plant was turned over to the business men when the money was advanced and they have since controlled and operated it. It is probable that the property will be disposed of at public sale in the near future.

The clear water of the Mississippl at the races will be salled over a lillicative state gular course.

The clear water of the Mississippi at the course is in strange contrast to the mud that meets the eye of the St. Louisan. The course is an ideal one, the river extending from east to west and the breeze is usually from the south. The details for the club as to transportation, badges, etc., will be arranged at the club-house this evening.

Leon Visu of Cincinnati had a brother who was something of a pitcher; and, speaking of twirlers, the Clarkson brothers shouldn't be overloaked, nor should the Kilroy boys, three of whom are now box artists. Keenan of Wilkesbarre has a brother playing ball. SANGER MAY JUMP.

Big Fellow of the Spalding Team Wants Cash Prizes.

The latest from Milwaukee is a story to the effect that Johnnie Johnson will probably be followed into the professional ranks by Walter C. Sanger, and that before the season is over. Sanger seems very anxious season is over. Sanger seems very anxlous to meet Johnson in a match, and announced before the latter was expelled from the league that he would, if necessary, become a professional to measure wheels with the Minneapolis man. It is believed that Sanger is tired of amateurism, and would become a professional at once if he could get Mr. Spaulding's consent. A friend of his in Milwaukee says that one thing is certain, and that is, however affairs may go next season, the gigantic Milwaukeean will race exclusively for cash. The cash spirit seems to be growing in favor among the class B men, and it is probable that next season all the crack men will be "pros."

He is condition to make the trial of his life, and if he gets pacing fast enough he will be very ts pacing fast enough he will be very ely to succeed in his attempt. The contest will be awaited with interest wheelmen the world over.

The Crack Cyclist Withdraws from the Chicago Road Race.

Chicago Road Race.

"Pye" Bliss, the crack class B man of the Chicago Cycling Club, will not ride Thursday in the Chicago road race. Sam Miles, the handicapper, placed him on scratch, but Bliss has decided that he will not take part in the race. The reason for his sudden change of mind is that he cannot ride the course of twenty miles in anything like fast time. Bliss' reputation is such that he feared to risk it in a race with Bainbridge, De Cardy, Gardiner and Peck.

COMISKEY DISGUSTED.

Have Sunday Games. Have Sunday Games.

Manager Comiskey of the St. Paul team, is sadly disappointed at the reception given Sunday ball in St. Paul, for it has already made a difference of several hundred dollars to him, to say nothing of the legal expenses which seem necessarily to be incurred if he has to keep up the fight. The opposition seems to be persistent, and it is apparent on the face of the returns that baseball cannot be made to pay in the Saintly City without Sunday games, for there is where the losses of the week must be recouped. For that reason, it is said, and Comiskey himself has intimated as much, that he is looking about for a promising location in some other town.

Texas is the home of the speedlest quarter horses in the world and the Browns were always noted for owning wonderfully fast horses. Bobby Beach will be remembered as the great sprinter of his day, and old Creole, whose breeding even the Browns were never able to ascertain was famous as one of the fastest horses ever seen on the Western circuit. When he purchased Libertine Galen Brown was convinced that the son of Leonatus would develop into a horse of terrific speed, and his guess was proved correct, when Libertine went his wonderful mile in 1:38%, at Harlem last summer.

"I believe Libertine is the speediest horse I ever saw," said Galen yesterday, "He cannot be placed and wants to race from the first jump. He has never gone a mile and a quarter, but he has done everything we asked of him, and he may surprise those who think he will not go the route Saturday. He has speed enough to run over the top of anything that will start, and if we could only place him and let him make his run in the stretch there would be nothing in the tibertine."

BOWLING GREEN Ky., May 28 .- Mrs. Willia Davis, 20 years old, a six-month bride, shot and killed herself Saturday. A log-rolling was in progress at the Davis homestead and all present imbibed freely, among them her husband. Davis was lying on a bed and his wife sat by his side for a few moments. Then rising she walked in front of the fireplace and taking a pistol from the mantel, fired a ball into her breast before her husband discovered her intentions.

SUICIDE PREVENTED.

Pair of Missouri Lovers Were Arrested Just in Time.

SEDALIA, Mo., May 28.—Had Officer John Jackson arrived at the City Cemetery five ninutes later he would have found W. M. Iones, aged 23, and Mabel Wilson, aged 19, Jones, aged 23, and Mabel Wisson, aged 19, dead by their own hands. They were lovers, and because of their inability to marry bad agreed to kill themselves Monday. Mabel wrote to her mother telling her where the bodies would be found. Mrs. Wilson's promptness saved their lives, She wired from Wyandotte and Officer Jackson in citizens' clothes surprised the lovers in the cemetery with a loaded revolver by their side.

Cut His Throat. ST. JOSEPH. Mo., May 28.—In a toilet room of a northbound Burlington & Missouri chair car Monday was found the body of a man with his head half severed from his body. Letters on him were addressed to A. D. Sanford, Houston, Tex. He had killed himself.

May 30th and 31st, the IRON MC UNTAIN and COTTON BELT ROUTES (a ted as the official line from St. Louis) will sell tickets St. Louis to San Antonio and return at one fare for the round trip. rate the work of the new Transportation Committee, under the management of Commissioner J. S. Leeds, by a banquet to which prominent railroad officials of the city will be invited. The idea is to foster unanimity of feeling between shippers and the transportation people.

The banquet will be an elegant affair and will probably be given at the Mercantile Club at an early date.

Street car patrons will be able to ride sit-ting down, whatever the time of day, if Judge James E. Withrow comes up to ex-pectations in passing upon a pending mo-tion in the $50,000 damage suit of Kathleen A. Riley against the Union Depot Railroad Arguments against the motion have been filed by Attorney Samuel H. Solomon and contain much comfort for the army of mea and women who have grown used to hanging to straps, leaning against fellow-pasengers and resorting to other devices to preserve their equilibrium because unable to find seats.

Mr. Solomon's patitive to the content of the seats.

Mr. Solomon's petition in the damage case evidently alarmed the street railroad case evidently alarmed the street railroad corporation, for the first step of Attorney Robert for the railroad company was to file a motion to strike out those parts of the petition alleging the injuries sustained by the plaintiff to have been the result of negect of the company in taking on more pa sengers than it could provide seats for. The petition aleging the injuries sustained by the plaintiff to have been the result of neglect of the company in taking on more passengers than it could provide seats for. The plaintiff was returning to her home on Chouteau avenue from her Olive street establishment, where she was making a nest sum by teaching dresscutting.

Boarding the car at Sixth and Olive, she found all the seats occupied and leaned against the back of the car for support. At the Twelfth street bridge a passenger was carried past his destination and the car was stopped so suddenly she was turied forward, dislocating her wrist. Since that time she has not earned a cent, according to her lawyer.

Attorney Robert contends that it does not make any difference whether the plaintiff was able to secure a seat or not.

In support of the plaintiff's position Attorney Solomon, in his written argument, proceeds somewhat in this way:

"A corporation, public, municipal or private, is that invisible, intangible and artificial person created by the law and made sul juris. It is composed of officers, agents and servants. They are the corporation, the head, the brain, the mouth, the fongue and hands of it. The directors could not perform the contract of seating plaintiff in this instance, but they could and should have exercised foresight and seen either that more seated cars were furnished morning and evening or that no more passengers should be received by the conductors than could be seated.

"The question of crowding carriages or boats or cars to the point of suffocation has not, within the memory of man been attempted or allowed in England or upon the Continent. So unusual is this regulation there that no man or woman in all Europe would, for several hundred years past, have been lailed down by Lord Kenyon that if the owners of coaches take up more passengers than are allowed by the act of Farliament, that should be deemed such an overloading that in case of an injury the excess above the number should be deemed conclusive evidence of negligence.

count of the principle it involves, not only from street car patrons but also from street railroad companies all over the United States.

"This will be a fight to a finish," said Mr. Solomon to a Post-Dispatch reporter. "We shall reject any offer of compromise short of the sum claimed. I think that my client will win, and it is not beyond possibility that the effect of the trial will work a revolution in street railway service."

NOT IN PRINT. ride, shot and killed herself Saturday. A The Magazines or Periodicals Contain No Writings of Lieut.-Gen. Schofield. Immediately on the announcement of new name for the office of President of the United States the question arises:

United States the question arises: What written record has he made? What have been his expressions on the question uppermost in the minds of the people during his presence in public life?

At the first publication of the name of Lieut-Gen. J. M. Schofield a corps of Post-Dispatch reporters besieged the St. Louis libraries and made a close investigation of the magasines and weekly publications, but found no article of any kind appearing over the name of J. M. Schofield.

The library indices and the latest publications up to date do not contain the name of Gen. Schofield as author of any article leading to the conclusion that he possesses one of the most valued characteristics of the ideal party candidate. He has not wristen himself down.

strong Expressions From a Member of the General Assembly.

"In my opinion both parties are disgraced by this session of the General Assembly, and the leaders of both parties have reason to be ashamed that they were members of it. The General Assembly as a whole was dominated by the lobby. There were some Democratis and some Reptblicans who were independent of the lobby, but as a whole, I say, the lobby dominated the Assembly."

These expressions came with emphasis and deliberation from Representative Omer Avery of Lincoln County, and one of the staunchest advocates of popular legislation who held a seat in either body.

"There were three Republicans in the House who steadily suported fellow servant legislation, and even botted their party caucus to do it—Moran, Hinde and Harfbut all the rest were entirely subservient to the will of Phelps. Phelps was right on hand during the Republican caucus sessions of Thurday and Friday nights. I don't know that he was actually in the caucus, but he directed it. The leading Republicans of the House told he Democrata again and again that time would be allowed the Sante to pass a fellow servant' bill. They refused in Thursday inght's caucus to adjourn on Saturday; refused Friday verning fo adjourn Saturday, but after Friday night's caucus they all fell in line. Bothwell, when he got the floor Saturday morning with his resolution to adjourn, made his little speech, and then moved the previous question, so that the Democratic could not fave any chance to express their opinion of the deception practiced by such men as Bothwell, Bittinger, Spencer, Minnis and Swanger. Even Steel voted Saturday morning for immediate adjournment, although he had opposed it all along, and and though he had opposed it all along, and and though he had opposed it all along, and and though he had opposed it all along, and and though he had opposed it all along, and and though he had opposed of the State. A committee public schools of the State. A committee from the G. A. R., headed by Post Department Commander Marsh of Winchester, presented a written protest against the text book now in use. The committee maintained that the use of the book ought to be discontinued for the reasons that it contains no suggestion that the men who fought for the union were right; there is general unfairness in the treatment of soldiers of the North; it is misleading as to facts, and is calculated to give false impressions to the youth; it is unfair and falsifying in tone and sentiment.

T. W. Gilson, representing the publishers of the book, maintained that it was fair to both sides and did the North full justice.

Archbishop Kain Proposes to Sell the Small Catholic Cemeteries.

ONE OF THEM IS ABANDONED.

The Matter Was Broached at the Annual Dinner of the Calvary Cemetery Board.

At a quiet luncheon in the old Clay man-sion, at Calvary Cemetery, last Saturday afternoon, Archbishop Kain and the mem-bers of the Cemetery Board discussed gravevards and other subjects. They had made he annual tour of the home of the dead and observed the condition of things, so hat in their table talk they reverted to the events of the day.

A report, clothed with an air of authority, got abroad that Archbishop Kain said he wished to remove the bodies, bones and ashes to Calvary from the small Catholic cemeteries, then sell the abandoned proper-ties, and apply the proceeds to the fund for the new Cathedral on which he has set his ties, and apply the proceeds to the fund for the new Cathedral on which he has set his heart.

The small cemeteries referred to are Rock Springs, now deserted and neglected, Holy Trinity, which is filled, and SS. Peter and Paul's. This story is denied by several gentlemen who were present, but they admit that the sale of cemeteries and the new Cathedral were discussed.

Mr. Henry Spaunhorst, when asked about the Archbishop's alleged statement, said:

"Archbishop's alleged statement, said:

"Archbishop's Kain visited the cemetery with the board of directors, and when we completed our tour we went to the Clay mansion in the new 240 acre cemetery tract, bought from Archbishop Kenrick for $120,000.

In the conversation at lunch some one referred to the Archbishop's desire for a new Cathedral, and the remark was made that in the deed for the Clay farm was a provision that the profits from the sale of lots for burlais should go to the fund for a new Cathedral. It was said Archbishop Kenrick put this in the deed. The question was in doubt, and Archbishop Kain smiled pleasantly at the suggestion. The matter will be looked into.

"The board was paid $70,000 for the Clay farm and owes about $50,000. The proceeds from the sale of lots in the original cemetery above a certain sum set aside for maintenance and repair go to the support of the orphans."

Mr. John Finn, who was at the luncheon,

Mr. John Finn, who was at the luncheon, said:

"I heard no reference to the new Cathedral. 'Archbishop Kain asked where the other Catholic cemeteries are located and where they had been years ago. We told him. He was informed of the condition of Rock Springs Cemetery, located several hundred yards west of the Manchester road, on the Clayton road. It contains about six acres, as part of it has been cut off for a street. It is abandoned for cemetery purposes, and is not cared for, although there are many bodies in it yet. When the Archbishop learned this he suggested that it might be well to remove the bodies to Calvary, and perhaps to dispose of Rock Springs Cemetery. It was not a regular meeting of the board, and his suggestion was taken as such. The title to all the cemeteries is vested in Archbishop Kenrick, and at his death will pass to Archbishop Kain. The Archbishop has power to sell any cemetery and to use the money as he sees fit. When the cemeteries on Fark avenue and elsewhere were condemned by the city years ago, and sold by Archbishop Kenrick, he employed the proceeds to pay off part of the debt of many churches.

"The proceeds of the sale of lots in every part of Calvary Cemetery, will be devoted to the support of the orphans. There is no provision that any of it shall be used for a Cathedral." Mr. John Finn, who was at the luncheon,

"As Archbishop Kenrick used the money from the sale of cemeteries to pay church debts, so Archbishop Kain may employ funds obtained from the same source, it more prosperous times for a Cathedral."
